Gordana Nikolić, Ph.D.

Founder and Dean of the Business School PAR

INTERNATIONAL, ENTREPRENEURIAL AND STUDENT ORIENTED

Business School PAR is the first and only private higher education institution in Rijeka, the biggest Croatian sea port.

Business school PAR (PAR) is the only business school in Primorje-Gorski Kotar County accredited by the Croatian Ministry of Science, education and sports that conducts an undergraduate professional study program Business Management. Through its short history, the Business School PAR has built a strong Alumni network with about 150 former students. Starting in January 2017, PAR will also introduce an MA program in Business Management with several different modules.

The Business School PAR is a modern higher education institution with an all-encompassing approach to professional education. The professional study program is conducted in close cooperation with the business sector and through partnerships with leading SMEs, which provides students with valuable experience based on equal proportions of theory and practice.

The goal of the Business School PAR is to empower students to develop new skills, to utilize their creativity and explore the possibilities of the modern economy in order to become successful professionals.

By creating a positive impact on the economy, and an empowering influence on the students, PAR strongly supports the startup culture, life-long learning, and entrepreneurship.

PAR has an unconventional approach to education, mainly because of the practical knowledge it provides, the trends it incorporates, and the guest lectures of successful entrepreneurs, all of which expanded my horizon both in business and in the social context. - Marija B., 45, PAR Alumni

To change the world is a mission, to choose that mission is courage, but to teach the students how is our privilege.

The educational principles that drive the Business School PAR are building experience, practicing skills, testing ideas, and creating strong professionals.

The study program requirements add up to students developing skills and challenging their ideas real-time. To provide its students with a chance to be up to date with the latest trends in the business and industry, PAR has established the Student Startup Incubator which allows them to practice their business ideas freely and encourages them to explore their professional identities with guidance from mentors and professional orientation experts.

The students are highly encouraged to move on to the Startup Incubator Rijeka and continue to the incubation phase. Namely, the Business School PAR has established a partnership with the mentioned startup incubator, that is led by the City of Rijeka.

I am aware of the fact that it is up to me to use all the advantages PAR offers, and there are plenty of those. I have recently organized an international program for students, entered a startup competition with my colleagues, and worked on testing an app for a European IT company. — Borna B., 21, PAR student

PAR students have entered several national and international startup competitions, opened several new businesses, and started an online news website that promotes successful stories of businesswomen .

PAR's success is connected to the creative leadership that gathers a young team of aspiring professionals.

INTERNATIONAL COOPERATION

Business School PAR has signed around 30 international cooperation agreements with higher education institutions from all around Europe, and developed several international student programs for acquiring ECTS or applying for internships.

Business School PAR is dedicated to becoming a dynamic provider of higher education and research in the region by preparing its students and staff to challenge for careers in the global arena. PAR's curriculum has been designed to include a strong international dimension and place special emphasis on student and staff mobility.

PAR has established a strong partnership with the Iacocca Institute from the USA in 2010. The partnership has resulted in a cooperation with Lehigh University as well.

The two institutions organize a yearly conference on leadership, and exchange students through various international and internship programs. Moreover, The Business School PAR is Iacocca Institute's pre-selection representative for the program Global Village for Future Leaders of Business and Industry and Pennsylvania School for Global Entrepreneurship.

Our students are successfully participating in the Global Village program since 2010, and since 2012 Lehigh students are enrolling in PAR internship programs.

Though I've hopped around a lot of places around Europe, I feel that Rijeka will have a special place in my heart. I love the local aspects like the people, the food, and the general feel of a not-touristy town like Rijeka. I learned a lot from everyone at PAR and enjoyed working in an encouraging environment. It was a great, educational experience, but even more a cultural one.—Farren L., foreign student intern at PAR

THE ERASMUS PROGRAM

The Business School PAR received the Erasmus Charter for Higher Education (ECHE) and became part of the Erasmus + program in December 2014. PAR has signed 15 inter-institutional Erasmus agreements so far, with respective higher education institutions from all over Europe. Its reputation, the multiculturalism of programs, and rich international experience is based on a long-term experience in hosting both exchange students and staff.

The Erasmus program implies numerous opportunities for mobility between institutions in terms of study, teaching and training. Internships in companies are recognized as part of those courses which include practical work or as a part of the Student startup incubator and are also included in the Diploma Supplement.

ENTERPRENURIAL CULTURE & MINDSET

The PAR Entrepreneurial Camp gathers young aspiring entrepreneurs and provides them with an opportunity to meet mentors and investors.

PAR organizes many events with the goal of introducing global trends and presenting modern business notions in the city of Rijeka. One of such events is the PAR Entrepreneurial Camp (PAR Camp), aimed at promoting the startup culture.

The PAR Camp gathers young aspiring entrepreneurs in a three-day program and provides them with the resources to develop their ideas, i.e. mentoring, training, material resources, etc. The young entrepreneurs compete, and the finalists get a chance to pitch their idea in an open-air program on the Trsat Castle during the final day of the PAR Camp. The finale includes open lectures, and a startup fair where all the attendees can get information on the work of local startups, as well as on educational institutions.

PAR has also been included in the Startup Europe Week (SEW) initiative set off by the European Commission to promote the startup culture around Europe. After hosting the starting SEW event earlier in 2016, the Business School PAR was entrusted with organizing the national SEW competition that will give a chance for a Croatian startup team to compete at the SEW Europe in 2017.

LOCAL INFLUENCE, GLOBAL REACH

PAR is considered to be the local leader when it comes to innovativeness in entrepreneurship, life-long learning programs and promoting women leadership. It is proof that an organization can have powerful influence in the community. This influence is exerted through PAR's brand and activities which mostly concern event management.

PAR organizes Open Days two times per year as well as lectures and educational training open to the local community, with a special emphasis on the unemployed, students, and local entrepreneurs.

WOMEN WITH NO EXCUSES

An event to honor female entrepreneurs of all generations, a movement to empower young women to participate in all aspects of economy and politics and a platform to communicate successful stories of businesswomen that may be looked up to as role- models. That is the purpose of the Women with no Excuses event dedicated to the WED initiative.

Even though the name itself may sound strange, the original title in Croatian is a wordplay incorporating the name of the PAR institution (the main organizer) into the phrase „no excuses“ in order to symbolize the power of a woman as an active member of the local community and the society in general.

The event has been organized yearly since 2014, when the dean of the Business School PAR was named the WED Ambassador for Croatia. Since the first year, it has had complete support from the SEECEL, Croatian Association of Business Women – Krug and the BPW Pula.

With a concept that encompasses lectures, one2one interview sessions, influencer talks, and discussions, this event promotes women entrepreneurship excellently.
